Future Building.

Future Building is an annual three-day interactive event that brings 6,000 youth together under one roof to stimulate their interests in the trades. Attendees include young career seekers in grade 7 through to post-secondary education, aboriginal youth, youth at risk and adults in career transition.

The event spotlights cutting-edge technologies in the trades by focusing on hands-on activities like virtual reality simulations; such as welding, excavating, painting and walking the 18' iron beam at the top of the CN Tower.

"As a teacher, I firmly believe that these types of events are not only important, they are essential for students who may be using certain tools for the very first time and see what it really feels like. Videos online and manuals can only teach them so much and these do not give them a great sense of accomplishment. I even saw entire lines of girls wanting to drill into sheet rock, assemble nuts with bolts and trying their hands at traditionally male dominated jobs. Not only were the individual kiosks wonderfully setup and informative, but the trades people there were amazing and answered all their questions with enthusiasm and encouragement. I have no doubt that you and this event have sent some of my students on a path towards a rewarding career in trades. I cannot thank you enough for this experience which is really inspiring our youth to a world of opportunity."

Our Vision

Future Building gives youth access to the infrastructure they need to pursue a career in the trades.

Our mission is to show that a career in the construction trades is more than a job, it's a platform for accelerated and professional growth where in-demand skills can facilitate successful and rewarding jobs opportunities. It also fosters mentorships and provides pathways for youth to engage with experts one on one.

Why partner with Future Building?

By partnering with Future Building you are providing a platform for youth to see the trades as a dynamic career opportunity. Our event is unique as it is primarily focused on hands-on interactive demonstrations. This allows all learning styles and abilities to better understand the opportunities available in the construction trades sector.
